

Join the Villa Beer Team

Specialists in Architectural Education (25–40 hours/week, starting December 2025)

Villa Beer – an architectural masterpiece of the Second Viennese Modernism – was designed and constructed in 1929/30 by the significant architects Josef Frank and Oskar Wlach for Julius and Margarethe Beer.

At present, this unique house is undergoing careful and expert restoration. We look forward to opening the house to visitors starting in spring 2026, where we will share the history of the founding family Beer and bring to life the modern architectural vision of its creators.

Villa Beer aspires to become a source of inspiration for architecture and design – a place that demonstrates the ongoing relevance of the visionary ideas embodied by the building.

To help us bring this vision to life, we are seeking dedicated individuals to join our team for architecture education starting in December 2025. Together, we will shape a dynamic and inclusive program for children, young people, and adults – translating the architectural legacy of Josef Frank and Oskar Wlach into the present.

What you can expect:

- You guide our guests through engaging, dialogue-based tours and educational workshops, conveying the significance of the architecture, its creators, and patrons within the sociohistorical context of 1930s Vienna – with both sensitivity and enthusiasm.
- You participate in the development of high-quality, target group-specific formats and programs that are accessible and intellectually stimulating.
- You coordinate communication with our guests and clients with poise and professionalism.
- You work closely with the management team, supporting the organization and further development of the mediation program.

What we expect from you:

- a completed education and/or relevant professional experience in the fields of architecture, art history, or cultural mediation,
- a strong interest in architecture, design, and Jewish history,
- experience in designing and managing educational programs,
- excellent organizational skills, a team-oriented mindset, and the flexibility to support wherever necessary in a small team,
- well-developed communication skills, service orientation, and a confident professional presence,
- a passion for working with diverse audiences and the willingness to lead tours and workshops on weekends and public holidays,
- excellent command of both German and English; additional languages are a plus.

What we offer you:

- a meaningful and responsible role with room for creative input,
- the opportunity to work in an inspiring, historically significant location with great cultural importance,
- collaboration within a small, dedicated team of professionals.

The gross monthly salary for this position starts at € 3,000 (for full-time employment; pro-rated for part-time) - depending on qualifications and experience, a higher salary may be offered.

The work location is at Villa Beer, Wenzgasse 12, 1130 Vienna.

We look forward to your detailed application (including CV, cover letter, and salary expectations) by September 15, 2025, the latest, via email to:
